

NATIONAL SKIN CENTRE
National Healthcare Group

ACCREDITED

BASIC DERMATOLOGY NURSING COURSE

For Community Care Nurses

The Basic Dermatology Nursing Course for community care nurses seeks to empower nurses with essential knowledge and skills, as well as to provide safe and competent care to the residents.

01 Objectives

- Acquire knowledge and skills of dermatological nursing care
- Demonstrate competency in managing residents with mild to moderate common skin conditions

02 Core Content

- Understand the basic structure and functions of the skin
- Identify the difference between normal and abnormal skin changes
- Perform basic skin assessment and understand the use of common dermatology terminology
- Demonstrate techniques of topical application, wet wrap therapy and scabies management

03 Training Methods

- Four education training modules
- On-site competencies assessment tests
- Undertake basic skin assessments to understand the use of common dermatology terminology
- Lectures, videos, demonstration of practicum and case discussions

Core Trainers' Profiles

Ms Wang Yu Yan is National Skin Centre's (NSC) first Advanced Practice Nurse (APN). She is a graduate from National University of Singapore where she attained her Bachelor of Science (Nursing) degree in 2009 and Master of Nursing (Medical/Surgical) in 2018. She has obtained Health Professions Educators' Essentials Training jointly organized by the NHG College and the Harvard Macy Institute in 2014.

Her roles include providing dermatological nursing and education services at nursing homes, Eczema Team Based Clinic and Programme SALVE (Skin Aid for the Vulnerable and Elderly) service. Currently, she is the committee member of Dermatology Bulletin and Education in NSC. In addition, she is also a member of the Dermatology Chapter member under Singapore Nurses Association.

Ms Leong Hui Hui is a senior staff nurse whom graduated with bachelor of nursing in Curtin University. She has more than a decade of dermatological nursing experience. A nursing faculty member of the NSC Advanced Dermatology Nursing Course and a clinical instructor. Her specialities include general dermatology and phototherapy.

She has been awarded the Ministry of Health Singapore - Health Manpower Development Plan (HMDP) scholarship (2017), NHG Teaching Award for Nursing Preceptors (2019), Nurses' Merit Award (2021) and MOH In-Service Scholarship for Master of Clinical Education with the University of Edinburgh clinical education (2022). A member of NSC Education Committee.

An active member of Singapore Nurses Association - Dermatology Chapter and Psoriasis Society of Singapore.

Course Fee $250.00
Minimum of 10 participants per session

ENQUIRIES
MS NOORAINNI
nursetraining@nsc.com.sg
6350 8407

SCAN TO REGISTER

Entry Requirements

This course is targeted at nurses who meet any of the following criteria:

- Without prior knowledge and skills of dermatology nursing
- Require some form of refresher or re-assessment of clinical competency
- As part of their nursing scope in managing patients with skin condition under their care